The Broken Boosey Conservation Management Network invites you to attend 'Beasts of the Broken Boosey and Beyond'

WHERE: Katamatite Recreation Reserve, Moore Street Katamatite

WHEN: Wednesday September 27th, 6.30pm for a 7.00pm start

ACTIVITY: Guest speaker Steve Wilson from the Goulburn Broken CMA will speak about some of the Broken Boosey's local native species – and one that is most definitely not!

COST: No cost. The Katamatite Community Action Group will provide a light supper at 6.30pm

Come along to hear GBCMA Land and Biodiversity Manager Steve Wilson speak about the lives and habits of dunnarts and goannas - iconic native species of the Broken Boosey region. Following these short presentations, Steve will speak about a 'beast' not so common around the Broken Boosey – or in the world for that matter!

The Javan rhinoceros lives only in a small area of Java, with 63 animals remaining. No Javan rhinos exist in captivity. Steve has been studying the Javan rhino for 3 years for his PhD, and has some fascinating information, stories, photos and footage to share on this intriguing, critically endangered species.

There is no cost for this evening. A light supper will be provided, however please purchase own drinks. For catering purposes, please RSVP by Friday September 22nd to Janice Mentiplay-Smith on 5764 7506 or email janicem@gbcma.vic.gov.au
