

More than just curious about regen ag?

Donna and James Winter-Irving have implemented Holistic Management practices in their grazing enterprise over the past five years to help them live the life they want whilst becoming more resilient and adaptive to lower rainfall and hotter temperatures.

Join us for a Q&A paddock walk with Donna and James and gain insights into how they are improving the health and diversity of their soil, plants and animals as well as their own wellbeing and business profitability. Learn about the few simple steps you can take to start transforming your life and land.
